X-labs has been making great progress on our X4 UAV project! We have most of the parts so we can finally start doing what we do best - building! The UAV will be built over the next couple weeks; this means that we will have more "build" meetings outside of the normal Friday meetings. I will send emails out whenever we meet so any available members can help with the build.

The website has been updated some as well. Please check out the "High Altitude Balloon Projects" link and the "X4 High Altitude UAV" link on the left.

Here is a picture of the UAV components that we currently have:
